Re: Validation of DRD ODIN-1A (Asset Transition Value Report)

The ODIN Program Office has reviewed the Data Rights Deliverable (DRD) ODIN-1A (Asset Transition Value Report), for the month ending on November 30, 2009. This deliverable provides a quantity and cumulative amount of those items remaining with residual value, including a cumulative value for the assets at the end of the performance period. After completion of this review, a determination was made that the quantities and monetary amounts are within a +/-3% variance of accuracy. This determination was based upon potential future requirements (increase), and items being removed from the report after completing their product life cycle (decrease). Another review will be provided for the next reporting period ending December 31, 2009, when received at the end of the current month. This deliverable is due on a quarterly basis, and subsequent reviews will be provided accordingly.
